

I'm not robot  reCAPTCHA

Continue

Wargaming game updater. exe

Thank you for downloading the game! If the download did not start automatically, try again. If the download did not start automatically, try again. 1. Select a folder to download 2. Please wait while the file is downloaded on October 3rd. Start the downloaded file and follow steps 1. Download the Game 2 client file. Start the downloaded file and follow steps 3. Move the game icon to app 4 folder. You start the game installer and wait until the end of installation When you start the launcher, a number of problems may arise: Inability to update the game - windows game updates may fail to download and install correctly. If this happens, follow the steps below: Click here to download a program that will delete tank world settings and file cache. Go to the game folder and delete the content in your Updates folder. Default location: C:\Games\World_of_Tanks\Updates Run WoTLauncher.exe to download the update again. Run the Game Startup integrity check and click Settings &gt; Support. Select **Preform Integrity Checker Infinite Update Check If the Launcher Update appears in the status line: check for updates, do the following: Flush DNS: Press Ctrl+Esc to display the menu page. Type a command prompt, right-click it, and choose Run as administrator. Type ipconfig /flushdns Press ENTER. Reset a network adapter (requires a restart): Press Ctrl+Esc to start the menu page. Type a command prompt, right-click it, and choose Run as administrator. Type netsh winsock reset Press ENTER and restart your computer. Make sure the update server is available. To do this: Press Windows + R and type cmd. Press OK. Type update.worldoftanks.asia Press Enter. Make sure that the number of packages sent is the same as the number of packages received. You cannot extract the update If this error occurs, do the following: Check your hard disk for errors. Check the drive on which the game is installed. Add the game to trusted apps in antivirus software settings Empty the Updates folder in your root folder with the game client. After you do the above, start the launcher and wait for the installation to complete. You cannot display a Web page If you receive a message This program cannot display the Web page, try resetting your Internet Explorer settings. To do this:1. Open Internet Explorer and press Alt. Select Service &gt; Internet options.2. In the displayed window, go to the Advanced tab and click the Reset button.3. In the Reset Internet Explorer Settings window displayed, check the Delete Personal Settings box, and then click Reset.4. After you do the above, restart Internet Explorer.5. Start the pitcher and wait for the game client to update automatically. Cogwheel rotates indefinitely If the wheel rotates indefinitely in Launcher and you pause the message update, do the following: Download this file from our website. Unpack it and .bat file (in some cases, you must run from administrator privilege). Restart your computer and start it start the game. You can't click the Play button If the Play button is disabled and you can't click it, do the following: The launcher restarts automatically: An exception occurred without handling If you get the message An exception occurred without shaking hands. The application will restart, some components of the operating system may be damaged. Follow the steps below: Check the integrity of the system. Repair or reinstall Internet Explorer. Tell me wargaming.net, why is it impossible to stop the game update from starting when my computer starts? Updater doesn't have the option to disable it anyway, and if you disable it in MSCONFIG's Startup options, it's enabled again the next time you launch the launcher. Why do you think you know better what programs I want to run when my computer rises from me? Why? Edit: I learned how to disable updater, please see post #23 Edited by MimoBOOM, 23 July 2016 - 12:50 PM. It has to be possible because mine doesn't do that. It's only updated when I start the launcher. Slyspy, on 21 July 2016 - 06:59 PM, said: It must be possible because mine does not do it. It's only updated when I start the launcher. Ditto - my updates also run launcher. Slyspy, on 21 July 2016 - 06:59 PM, said: It must be possible because mine does not do it. It's only updated when I start the launcher. Cassie_b, on 21 July 2016 - 07:05 PM, said: Ditto - my updates also run the launcher. I think it's something new. To clarify, actually receiving updates when the launcher starts is not a problem. That's fine and how I'd like it to work. The problem is that a separate updater starts when Windows starts and this updater cannot be disabled. I'm actually not sure what he's doing when he doesn't seem to be doing anything. Maybe it's just a torrent client and nothing more (except a powerful irritating.) but it shouldn't continue to override my settings. MimoBOOM, on 21 July 2016 - 06:23 PM, said: I guess something is new. To clarify, actually receiving updates when the launcher starts is not a problem. That's fine and how I'd like it to work. The problem is that a separate updater starts when Windows starts and this updater cannot be disabled. It's a new WG game update service thingumajig, can't you just uninstall? I looked at it when it was published and thought, yes, I don't want that. Edited Homer_J, 21 July 2016 - 07:49 PM. Homer_J, on 21 July 2016 - 07:47 PM, said: It's a new WG game update service thingumajig, Can't you just uninstall? I looked at it when it was published and thought, yes, I don't want that. Yes, I uninstalled it. No more WarGaming stuff on my computer anymore. If only to remove all your files in %appdata% and registry. In fact it is a new feature that you can easily disable -- hedi2222, on 21 July 2016 - 08:24 PM, said: Actually it is a new feature that you can easily disable -- Feel free to enlighten me. Which one did I easily find option missed? MimoBOOM, on July 2016 - 07:44PM, said: Feel free to enlighten me. Which one did I easily find option missed? You want me to take that out, too? hedi2222, on 21 July 2016 - 08:48 PM, said: You want me to mix it up as well ? I don't think you've seen the new updater yet. Pitcher and updater are two different pieces of software. Updater is not part of the launcher you showed on the screen. Although you can set whether you want to receive and/or sow new updates in LAUNCHER, you cannot prevent UPDATER from starting as soon as you log on to Windows. MimoBOOM, on 21 July 2016 - 08:30 PM, said: I don't think you have seen the new updater yet. Pitcher and updater are two different pieces of software. Updater is not part of the launcher you showed on the screen. Although you can set whether you want to receive and/or sow new updates in LAUNCHER, you cannot prevent UPDATER from starting as soon as you log on to Windows. Delete it , use the launcher instead. If you could just use a little brain power... Hedi2222, on 21 July 2016 - 09:45 PM, said: Delete it , use the launcher instead. If you could just use a little brain power... If you read what I wrote in this thread, you could have known that I deleted it, along with every other WarGaming.net software I could find on my computer. But I admit that I didn't just try to delete the EXE updater file, but I wouldn't be surprised if the launcher forced a 'fix' of the missing file. On the other hand, do you really trust the software of a company that constantly overrides Windows settings so that your computer can run its software? Until recently, this is a practice that I have only seen with viruses, worms and other types of malware. Edit: Spelling. Edited by MimoBOOM, 21 July 2016 - 10:10PM. Perhaps this recent thread is relevant to you automatic updater, which, as far as I can see, is something you need to get involved in, but you can just as easily turn off. Edited by 250swb, 21 July 2016 - 10:30pm. This thread confirms the new update system. However, thank you for not addressing an issue that you cannot prevent from running a background updateer. The only option you have when you don't want this background process to work unnecessarily is to manually snudge out of the updater every time you log on to Windows and WarGaming.net game. When you do, by the way, it warns you that exiting the updater only pauses the game update. MimoBOOM, on 21 July 2016 - 23:24, said: This thread confirms the new system of updates. However, thank you for not addressing an issue that you cannot prevent from running a background updateer. The only option you have when you don't want this background process to work unnecessarily is to manually snudge out of the updater every time you log on to Windows and WarGaming.net game. When you do, by the way, warns that exiting the updater only pauses the game update. Um, it seems to be a tick box? Slyspy, on 22 July 2016 - 12:21AM, said: Um, it seems to be a tick box? Do you mean the same tick houses as described in #9 and #10? MimoBOOM, on 21 July 2016 - 22:24, said: This thread confirms the new system of updates. However, thank you for not addressing an issue that you cannot prevent from running a background updateer. It doesn't start on my computer. Also in that thread the meerkat claims that it could have turned on and then turned off again. If the meerkat can do this (although it is sneering), then I am sure that you can too. Edited Homer_J, 23 July 2016 - 12:07 AM. MimoBOOM, on 22 July 2016 - 23:32 PM, said: Do you mean the same tick houses as described in #9 and #10? A check mark that is marked in a 250swb post as one that, when marked, includes automatic updating and which in my client, which is not automatically updated, is not marked? Yes, that one. Slyspy, on 23 July 2016 - 01:01 AM, said: Tick box that is marked in post 250swb as if which, when marked, includes automatic updating and which in my client, which is not automatically updated, is not marked? Yes, that one. This? MimoBOOM, on 21 July 2016 - 06:19 PM, said: Why do you think you know better what programs I want to run when my computer rises from me? Why? Considering how you repeatedly ignore the attempts of others to help and explain your problem I suppose they may really know better which programs you want to run when booting Of course screenshots since your computer does these unwanted updates would be a little useful to understand the problems. (and for stats only, my game also starts updating only when I start the pitcher)